

Where Corn and Soybeans Show Up In Supply Chains

Building regenerative agriculture into the foundation of enterprise sustainability is one critical component for meeting and exceeding carbon, climate and regeneration goals. Find out which products include corn and soybeans and can start implementing and incentivizing regenerative agriculture, today!

Corn in Our Supply Chains

Food products

Cereals, snack foods, salad dressings, soft drink sweeteners, chewing gum, peanut butter, hominy grits, taco shells and other flour products, specialty corn including white corn, blue corn and popcorn.

Animal feeds

Distillers dried grain, gluten feed and meal, high-oil feed corn for cattle, swine, poultry and fish.

Industrial products

Soaps, paints, corks, linoleum, polish, adhesives, rubber substitutes, wallboard, dry-cell batteries, textile finishings, cosmetic powders, candles, dyes, pharmaceuticals, lubricants, insulation, wallpaper and other starch products.

Fermentation products & by products

Industrial alcohols, fuel ethanol, recyclable plastics, industrial enzymes, fuel octane enhancers, fuel oxygenates and solvents.

Soybeans in Our Supply Chains

Plastics & Paper

Resin, fiberglass, windows, insulations, foam seats for cars, coat paperboard, lubricants for paper and paperboard coatings

Adhesives

Coatings, wood-floor coating, soy acrylic alkyd primer, satin deck and siding product, parking lot paint, floor covering installations, carpet, resilient flooring and wood adhesives, paper cones, wood-composite adhesive

Surfactants

Soaps, paints, corks, linoleum, polish, adhesives, rubber substitutes, wallboard, dry-cell batteries, textile finishings, cosmetic powders, candles, dyes, pharmaceuticals, lubricants, insulation, wallpaper and other starch products.